VOL. 10 NO. 19 | WARREN, PENNSYLVANIA | Thursday, April 17, 1958 | 10 Cents A Copy

COUNCIL BUYS PLAY GROUND, TRUCKS, HEARS FIRE FACTS

Council voted Monday to pay Hans Link $10,000 for a large piece of land bordering the Mulberry playground on the east. It paid $1,000 down and the balance is due December 31, 1959.

It accepted a bid of $4,980 from H. L. Link for a Dodge dump truck to be used by the street department, and a bid of $1,646 for an International pick-up truck from the Simones and Cook garage, to be used by the park department.

It gave final approval to the ordinance for limiting parking on Prospect st. to the west side from Pennsylvania ave. to Division, and the east side from Division to Center.

Officer Donald E. Fitch was granted fifteen days of military leave.

It approved an amendment to the permanent street improvement fund resolution which permits the repayment of money to the general fund and to banks from which it may have borrowed.

Jackson st. residents submitted two petitions in opposition to widening that roadway. Alternatives suggested included various speeding, passing, and parking controls, parking elimination, and full payment by the state of the costs.

A request from Youngsville for the changing of daylight saving to a September date was referred to the committee, but there will be no such change if the major cities continue their hours to late October. Youngsville offered to change to the earlier date if Warren would.

Manager Geracimos said the audit of the sewage authority for 1957 has been received and is on file in the borough office.

Mr. Geracimos was appointed collector of sewage rentals. It does not pay a salary.

SPEAKS FOR FIREMEN

Preceding the meeting a talk was given by Charles J. Loesche, vice president of the International Association of Fire Fighters, AFL-CIO. A fireman in Philadelphia, he visits many Pennsylvania and Virginia cities to advise communities and firemen with problems.

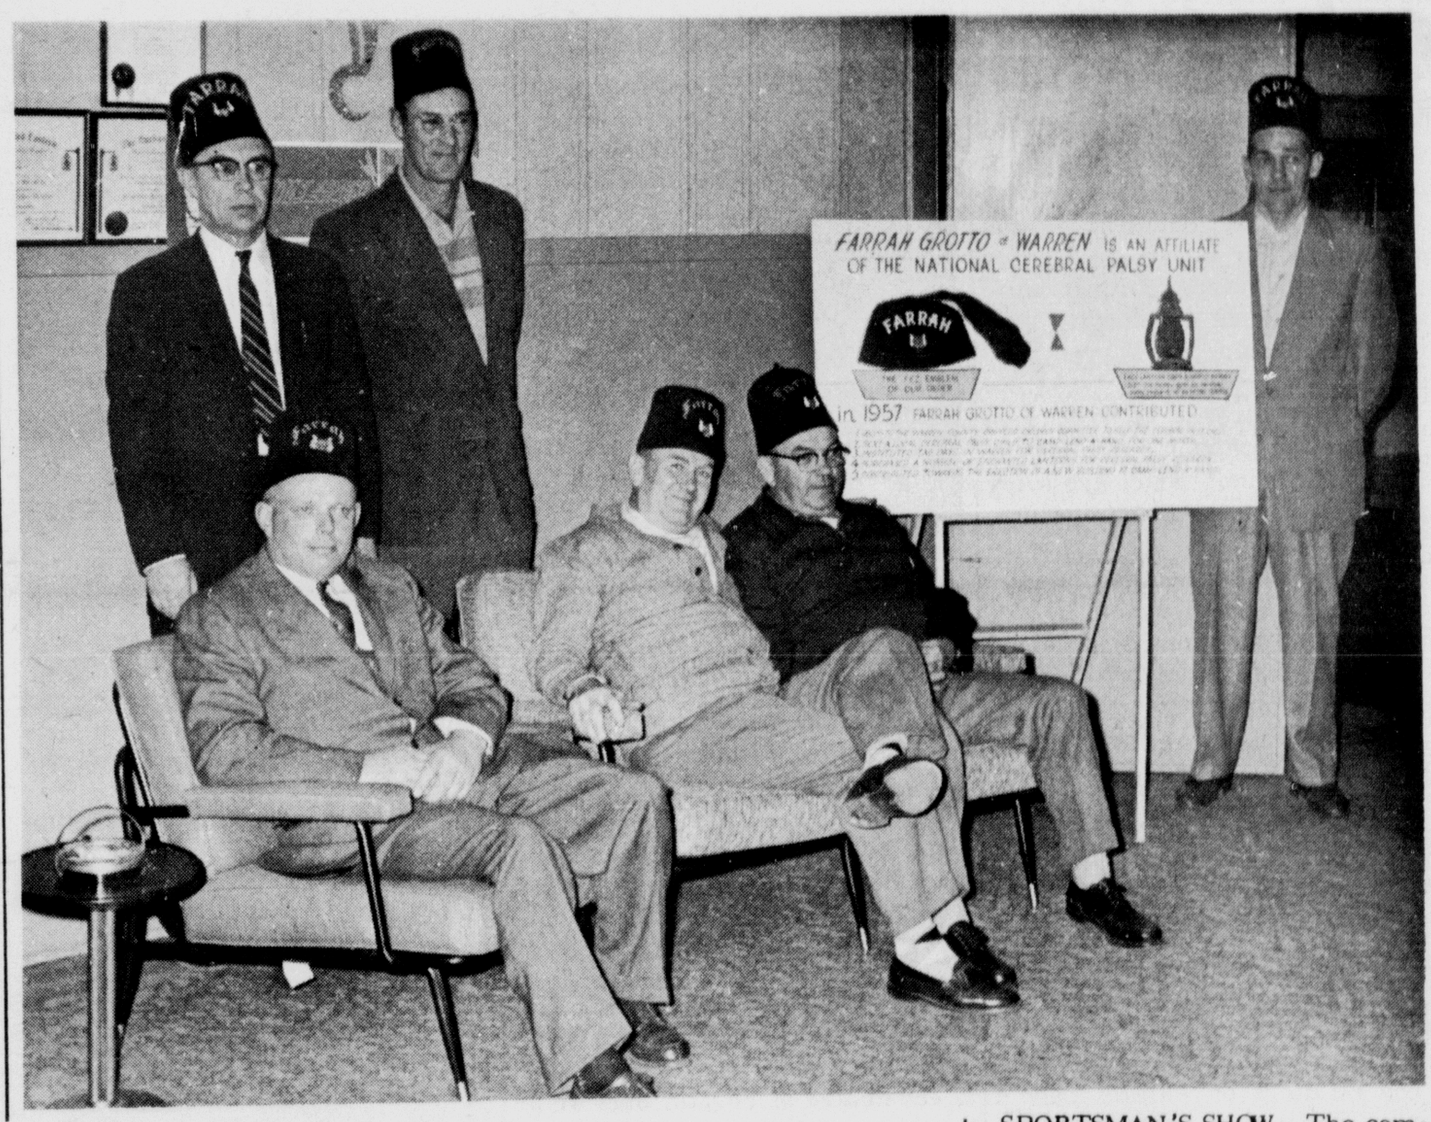

He stated that the Warren department is undermanned, a dangerous situation in a community comprised of homes which are 80 per cent frame construction. He suggested Warren should not wait for loss of life before improving its department.

He said the Warren firemen are organized and should be recognized for collective bargaining purposes, thus improving morale. He said the 24-hour day for firemen went out with the horse, and that men doing such dangerous work should not be asked to be on the job so many hours.

He urged civil service action that would have regular examinations and create lists of ratings for advancement purposes.

He said it was unfair to ask firemen to work an 84-hour week while policemen who were paid as much as $30 a month more worked only 48 hours in the same town.

He urged a spirit of cooperation between men and officials and an improved morale situation by allowing them to express their gripes.

SPORTSMAN'S SHOW. The committee in charge of the Sportsman's Show of Farrah Grotto met Monday evening to complete arrangements for this unusual local event. The latest plans call for 15 local merchants, along with some nationally known manufacturers, to display under one roof the latest in sporting equipment.

These displays will range from a portable swimming pool with all the trimmings, to golf, archery, boating, fishing, hunting, and camping gear that will make the 1958 sportsman the best equipped and most envied of a long list of sportsmen.

The show will also enable the public to compare different makes and models at the same time and place.

The Sportsman's Show will be held at Beaty Cafeteria on April 25 from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. and on April 26 from 2 p.m. to 10 p.m.

A small charge for admission will enable the Farrah Grotto to increase its funds that are used in the fight against Cerebral Palsy.

Among committee members working on the project are (l. to r.) seated -- Richard Metzger, chairman, Emmet Ecklund and Frank Reese; standing -- Monarch Robert Chittester, Robert Shatzle and Robert Cogswell. Not present are Glenn Mickleson, Russell Templeton, Ben White, Charles Lane, Wendell Lawson, Don Dumont and William Wilson.

WHAT A LIFE! This is just one of many typical scenes as fishermen congregated along the streams when trout season opened on beautiful Tuesday. The camera captured these "men in boots" up Brown Run.

The weatherman was a swell guy, but from most interviews the trout were not so kind.

Zoning Change Defeated By Warren Boro Council

The proposal to change two blocks of Fourth ave., between Market and Hickory to a new type zoning district, known as Resident 4, was defeated, 11 to 6, at the Monday meeting of the Warren borough council. It may prove a damaging blow to orderly zoning in Warren borough.

This area already is comprised of numerous exceptions, and also has several old homes which are badly deteriorated. It is doubtful if anyone will wan t them for homes in the future. Development of this section thus is left to zoning by exception with the controls lacking that would have been provided by the proposed ordinance amendment.

Allowing business and professional offices in this area, and limiting them in size and use would have provided a buffer that might have contained the business area for many years. It would have forced owners of run-down office space in the retail section to improve their property. As it now stands they have no incentive and find it very profitable to do nothing.

The retailers of Warren made a major mistake by not supporting the amendment. The crowded condition that now exists in the downtown section precludes improvements, and the result may be the creation of shopping centers outside of Warren, with bulldozers already at work north of us, and plans in the making for at least one major chain store to build on the three-way.

Councilman Miller took a strange stand against the amendment, claiming that he would be for it if Warren had a building code and an inspector. It happens that the state has very strict building laws and inspectors where new commercial buildings are involved, and has little control over old buildings. The amendment would have provided such controls in a transitional area.

Councilman Langdon said he was against such groups as the county commissioners competing with private enterprise by renting office space, even if the commissioners carried out their promise to place the annex on the tax list.

What would such councilmen and citizens have the commissioners do with this property? It is not their personal building. It belongs to all of us , and will not contribute to the value of the area while standing as an expensive relic of the past. If we could rent this we might eventually sell it as a profitable business venture, to the benefit of all taxpayers.

Councilman Africa attempted to change the ordinance to extend only to the middle of Fourth. This would have been split zoning of the worst sort and was recognized as such when council defeated the idea, 15 to 2.

Councilman Carbon suggested that such improvements would serve as a buffer between the commercialized area and the residential neighborhood. He said the run-down offices in the business sections lacked elevator service and the owners would not spend the money required for such an improvement as long as they did not have to.

The vote showed the following in favor of the zoning improvement: Councilmen Frantz, Merenick, Timm, Carbon, Juliano, and Laskaris.

Opposed were Councilmen Torrance, Langdon, Miller, Meacham, Patchen, Smith, Levine, Africa, Newmaker, Hetem, and Emery.

The action of council had discouraging aspects. If those voting against the change were not influenced in their thinking by the social and economic status of those opposing it, a misunderstanding of the purpose of zoning was evident. Zoning is not iron-clad restriction of expansion. Zoning is controlled change. And change you cannot stop. Either you control it or you have zoning by exception with "nonconforming" structures spotting areas where growth is inevitable.

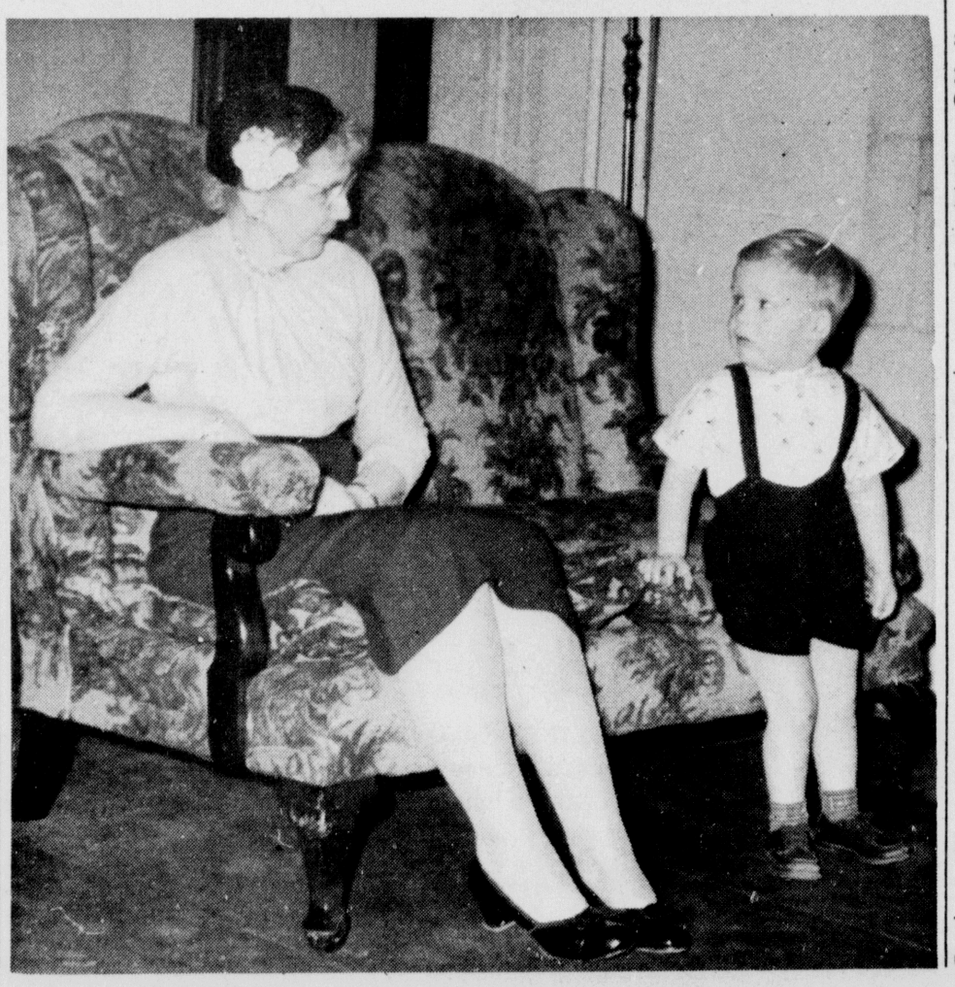

Fourth ave. is such an area. Council has lost its control by ignoring a well planned and considerate amendment that was a sincere effort to be pleasing and beneficial to all.

THIS GROUP PICTURE was taken in the First Methodist Church last Thursday when the Warren Central unit entertained the Warren County WCTU Institute. Unions represented besides Warren were Glade, Youngsville and Russell-Akeley.

County officers present were (l. to r.) seated - Mrs. Leslie Putnam, treasurer; Mrs. William Duff, local flower mission director; Mrs. Harold Richael, recording secretary; Mrs. Robert Young, local director of character education; Mrs. C. C. Johnson, Youngsville president; Mrs. George Johnson, county vice president; Mrs. S. M. Fox, local union signal director; Mrs. Watson Jamieson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Carl Lindquist, vocal director; and standing, right -- Mrs. John Trauffer, Warren Central president and county institute director. Rev. Clarence Baldwin and Rev. A. Culmer Schultz are standing in the back.

LTL's who entertained their sponsoring Warren Central WCTU group's meeting at First Methodist Church last week.

Presenting several musical numbers and a temperance skit were Mrs. John Mallery, leader, Freddy Rhoades, Gerry Wallin, Bonnie Seder, Diane Stenstrom, James Crosby, Sharon Stelle, William Baker, Dean Baker and Barbara Baker.

LITTLE GREGORY HANKS represented 22 White Ribbon recruits who joined the Warren Central WCTU this year. He is becoming acquainted with Miss Clara Wickstrom, county and local director, prior to services conducted last Thursday.

RACIAL PREJUDICE FANNED

Racial misunderstanding and prejudice are being kept very much alive by the press, both in the newspapers and on the radio. We noted an example on the front page of the Warren Times Mirror last Friday.

A sensational story concerning a man condemned to life imprisonment for killing his wife was given double column attention. After receiving his sentence he married another women and marched to his cell.

The final line of the story, standing all by itself as a short-sentenced paragraph, read:

"The Hunts are negroes."

What was the point? For every story of crime involving negroes there are many more involving other races. Why the emphasis in this northern hemisphere where we preach racial equality and look down our blue noses at the South?

Why not end all stories with race description?

The Times is not alone. We see it in many other area papers and hear it on the radio. They talk in elegant tones on the editorial page or when commenting on the problem, but fail to practice their own fine phrases when the news in handled.

* * *

HIS OWN GROUND

We saw a televised picture of President Eisenhower in the midst of a press conference last week that convinced us the man is not fighting for many of his proposals because they may not be really his own. It was different this time.

The subject was the defense department reorganization. The President was angry. So angry he couldn't put his words together. But what he said added up to the conclusion that here was an area in which he felt he had no peer. (We did win the war.) The idea must have been very much his own and the thought that congress would deign to oppose it exasperated him beyond ready words.

We haven't known him to show this much fight over such programs as the school shortage, foreign aid, and a few others. He gave them his blessing and let congress go its way.

But this is his ground and the difference is obvious. It convinces us that much of his past program has been very little his own.

* * *

SHUT UP!

Members of the United States defense services who do not agree with President Eisenhower's reorganization plan have been advised to resign if they do not agree with the plan. In short, if you don't agree with defense policy you should not be serving your country.

This sounds like a police state utterance, though we doubt if the foreign dictators would allow you to walk out. They might arrange to have you carried.

This tough attitude has reached light through a speech made by Defense Secretary Neil McElroy who will be the power if the operation of our three branches come under a single head. Financially and otherwise he or his successor will be the wheel.

We are inclined to approve any move that will coordinate our army, navy, and air force, both in battle action and in the economics of preparation. The change is long overdue and we are forced to wonder why a President with so much military know-how that he is inflamed by disagreement has waited six years to act. War has been just around the corner every moment of his term. If this is not so he got elected on a strange platform.

But we believe that if any criticism is expressed, its best origin should be those who make war their business. And if we don't find them in our various defense offices it is about time we went looking for experienced help.

If these men are not authorities, why do we have them there? Why does the President have them in the service?

There are many inconsistencies to be found here, but the most obvious one is that in a democracy which stands spotlighted in the eyes of the world we are not inviting difference of opinion and are telling those who disagree to stop serving their nation.

We aren't interested in what you have to say. Please, shut up!

This . . . . is America?

FUTURE WEAPON

When Edward R. Murrow's Person to Person program entered the home where objects have been flying, bottles breaking, and ink pots sailing, a new kind of weapon may have been unveiled. No one has been able to definitely prove what has caused heavy bookcases to topple over, and gravity to be defied by otherwise docile furnishings.

But the owner of the home, whose family has lived through this without casualties, and has stayed put despite harrowing mysteries that might have driven out less calm and persistent folks, has a possible solution. He suspects something we believe they call signal triangulation.

Now don't ask us to explain it. The smallest thing we studied in science class was the atom. The thought that some day this vague bit might be opened wide and its contents poured out for all to use would have chased us into domestic science.

But it occurs to our simple mind that if the conversion of radio signals, or signals of any kind, at a given point can do what has happened in this home, new weapon possibilities are in for much exploration, and the H bomb is only a few wave lengths from antiquity.

BUYERS' CORNER

THEY AGREE

Last week we gave the auto industry as an example of the failure to attempt to sell our way out of the "recession". The next day the Wall Street Journal supported our contention with a front page feature.

The Journal said that one out of every four Americans interviewed are in the market for a car, but few of them ever see a salesman. One man owned a 1949 Lincoln but had not been visited by a car salesman since he bought it.

The Journal even lists a few, telling what car they want, or when they are going to buy, though none has "either seen or heard from an automobile salesman in the past year". One of them buys a car every twelve months. It seems every garage in town would be on his doorstep.

Wall Street Journal reporters visited many show rooms and found the salesman not inclined to waste time selling them. Few offers were made to demonstrate models, and one just pointed at the cars on the floor and let the customer sell himself.

The Journal, however, said that the car business is not the worst. Efforts to be sold were met with even colder results by those merchandising home furnishings and household appliances, where only about a tenth of the calls resulted in follow-ups by salesmen. The best sales reaction was found in the fields of encyclopedias, insurance, investments, and office appliances.

We sympathize with the car dealers. When a dealer has a backyard or a warehouse full of used cars it must be discouraging to think of taking in another in order to make a sale. And then another to sell that one.

SIGN OF TOMORROW

Meanwhile, all eyes of the car industry and of those vitally interested in motoring have been focused on the auto show in New York. The young speedballs of tomorrow had the biggest eyes. And those who know their car business will tell you that the young members of the American home have much to do with such decisions as what car to buy. They recognize the sharp lines and avvantages of the imports.

The first car to be sold was a $25,000 Rolls. And the foreign sales continued to roll. Before the year is out they probably will total a figure that could be interesting even to a Detroit productionphile.

AND TOMORROW?

There is one aspect of this car business which doesn't fit into the puzzle pieces which confront us today. Two of these puzzles are gasoline supply and parking. While we talk of the need to conserve our oil resources and our dependence on foreign supplies which are threatened by our potential enemies, we build bigger and heavier cars, more powerful engines, and burn up more gasoline.

And while our communities from coast to coast struggle with the parking problem, the cars come so much longer that the nation's garages serve as little more than sleeves for the hood.

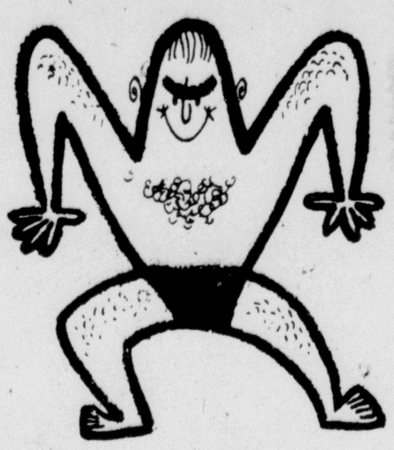

The American car has more to offer than the importations, more comfort, more room, more safety, and comforting accessories. But instead of improving on these, the car engineers talk about power and length, far more of either than is required to provide pleasing lines and sufficient get-away, proof of which is in the sleek models from overseas.

Detroit overdid both this year, as indicated by the sales barometer. Meanwhile, the dealer front, according to the Wall Street Journal, is not out selling the one of four who wants a car right now, proof of which is that only one in five receive even a postcard in the way of a sales pitch. You can't find that one in four when you don't enjoy even a mail sales acquaintance with one in five.

Detroit spends millions for advertising, but obviously is not reaching the grass roots and the pocketbooks with a true saturation. It is not aware of the situation, or doesn't know how to walk out of its tv picture and really reach the public . . . . . or it doesn't want it?

* * *

(It is interesting that Chevrolet and Ford which advertise regularly in weekly newspapers are doing far better than Plymouth which is a bit highbrow about where it spends its money.)

WANTA BUYA TRUCK?

We don't know how well the trucking business is doing but we do know that you can buy a trailer for as little as $100 or as much as $7,500. It is spring sale time, and even the lumbering truck trailers have such light-hearted moments.

Long lists of them are available, with dealers spotted throughout Ohio, New York, Pennsylvania, Michigan and other industrial spots. There are aluminum vans, open tops, steel vans, produce units, tanks, dumps, flats, platforms, tilt decks, reefers, and anything you can name.

Fruehauf alone claims six thousand such "dollar-saving buys and leases".

WHAT RECESSION?

Gas knows no hard times. The gas utility and pipeline industry claims February sales increased nearly six per cent over the 1957 figures. And at larger prices!

And common stocks in natural gas registered a 2.3 per cent advance over the February prices, and 14.3 over last December. Says the American Gas Association:

"Aided by a 1.3 per cent increase individuals paid, distribution company stocks climbed to a new all-time peak price of $30.32 a share . . . ."

BLUE CROSS GROWS

Blue Cross hospitalization insurance now is held by about 31 per cent of the United States people, and in Pennsylvania almost 52 per cent of the population are subscribers. The national membership grew to about 56 million last year, and payments to hospitals for subscriber care totalled over one and four-tenths billion dollars. This is about 95.8 cents on every income dollar.

Blue Cross has paid out eight billion dollars since 1938. In Pennsylvania there are over 5 1/2 million members.

NEW HEATING RATE

To encourage the use of electricity as a source of heat for area homes, a new rate for residential customers is being asked of the Public Utility Commission by the Penelec. If approved it will go into effect June 10, 1958.

The proposed rate offers 6,000 killowatt hours a year at 2.2 cents per kwh, and all in excess of the 6,000 at 1.6 cents per kwh. This is the same as that now being used by those burning up to 750 kwh a month. Additional use in excess of 750 will cost 1.6 cents in contrast to the present 1.75 cents.

The rate will be on an annual basis, paid monthly at one-twelth of the estimated yearly cost.

RESIGNING. Matthew Hosie, assistant principal of Warren high school, submitted his resignatuon to the joint committee of the Warren Area School Board Monday night. He is preparing to accept the principalship of the junior-senior high school in North East.

The Brighter Side

By Percival F. Brundage

Retired Director of Bureau of the U. S. Budget

WASHINGTON. -- The Federal budget has received a lot of attention during the last 12 months and has been criticized as being both too small and too large.

A budget is a financial plan or forecast prepared in advance -- in the case of the Federal budget, six to 18 months in advance. The budget for the current fiscal year of 1958 was submitted to the Congress in January of 1957 and has already been altered significantly both by the Congress and by the sweep of events.

The budget for the 1959 fiscal year, commencing next July 1, was submitted to the Congress two months ago and is now receiving its attention. It was estimated in January that expenditures for fiscal 1958 would amount to $72.8 billion and for fiscal 1959 to 73.9 billion. These expenditures can be grouped under four main headings.

The protection of this country will take over 63 percent of our total budget expenditures in each of these years. An increasing proportion of expenditures is being devoted to acceleration of missile programs, to strengthening our nuclear retaliatory power and to spurring military research and development programs.

As a partial offset to the higher cost of new weapons and their electronic and nuclear components, expenditures for other military equipment and aircraft of declining importance are being reduced, and curtailments of certain civil programs have been proposed.

Furthermore, we must not think of ourselves alone. The economic challenge of the Soviet bloc is as important as the military threat, and we must not forget it.

We must continue to strengthen our allies and to remove the restrictions on world trade. We must always remember that we cannot keep up our exports, which employ several million workers, without accepting imports to pay for them or otherwise making dollars available to our customers. It was the failure of the Kreditanstalt in Austria in May, 1931, which turned that recession into the long depression of the '30s.

The 1959 budget contained a number of recommendations which would reduce Federal expenditures to some extent in 1959, but to a much greater extent in future years. These recommendations were largely in the civil benefit programs, the second main category of expenditures, which make up about 22 percent of the total.

The technical revolution in agriculture, which has increased production per acre of land so tremendously through improved fertilizers and insect control, has made the fixed price support program adopted years ago wholly inadequate to meet the present needs of the farmers or the consuming public.

The veterans' programs need revisions, as recommended by General Bradley's commission after a thorough study by competent experts.

The ceiling on interest rates imposed by the Congress on direct government loans and on insured or guaranteed loans should be lifted to stimulate building and encourage private financing.

There are two other general classifications of expenditures beside protection and civil benefits. They are interest, which takes almost 11 percent of our total receipts, and general cost of government, which covers adminstration of executive departments and agencies as well as Congress and the courts. This comes to two percent of the total.

In addition, provision has been made for military and civilian pay adjustments and a special $500 million fund has been proposed for Defense contingencies to take full advantage of new discoveries and breakthroughs.

Any further steps to stimulate our economy must at the same time strengthen it and not lead to further inflationary pressures. Business and individual decisions will lead us back to higher employment and production more effectively than government spending.

The President has already taken desirable steps to accelerate sound, approved programs, but we are not going to suggest vast new make-work projects. We must improve our school curricula and avoid pampering our children and ourselves, but that is largely up to our citizens and parents to accomplish.

The present slackening of business is not an unnatural or a terrifying phenomenon. It is merely a breathing spell following the excessive production of such things as houses and automobiles in 1956. Our economy is sound and will cure itself with encouragement but not control by government.

We have not had the speculation in securities and real estate that brought on earlier depressions, and we do not have the inventory problems of 1920-'21. The banking situation is sound and we have many other stabilizing factors not present in earlier recessions.

Turning for the moment to budget receipts. They were expected in January to amount to $72.4 billion in fiscal 1958, and $74.4 billion in 1959, with taxes maintained at present rates. These estimates were based on the most careful analyses of the economic situation and all other information available at the time of the preparation of the budget.

It is quite possible that these estimates may be reduced somewhat after the figures for the April 15 income tax payments become available. But there is no firm basis for making valid new estimates at this time, and I believe that the gloomy predictions made by some need not be taken to seriously.

If the recession should continue longer than anticipated, the President has indicated he will present recommendations for tax reductions, which will stimulate the economy and, at the same time, have a constructive long-range effect. We have a lot to be thankful for and cheerful about.

Officials are discussing the possibility of arranging twilight games to allow a larger public attendance.

UP AND OVER -- Jerry Angove, Northern Area, cleared the bar at 5 ft., 7-1/4 in., to win first place in the high jump event during the season's first track meet at Beaty Field.

BATTLING FOR SECOND place in the half mile event were Trauffer, left, Warren, and Hopkins of Youngsville. Hopkins crossed the line in front to chalk up second place. First place was taken by Belfast of Youngsville.

OUTDOORS

WANT TO BE A WARDEN?

Recently we reported in this column that a class of student officers would be entering the game commission's school on July 1, 1958, with examinations to be held for the applicants in Harrisburg on May 10.

The size of the class will be twenty-five.

You must be twenty-one and not over thirty-five, a resident of Pennsylvania, weigh at least 140 pounds, stand at least 5 feet, 8 inches, and have no less than 20-30 vision. You also must have at least a high school education or the equivalent.

While in school you will receive a minimum of $100 and perhaps as much as $175, depending on your marital status and number of dependents. During a one-year probationary training you will receive $3,925. You then will be assigned to existing vacancies.

In addition to the examination on May 10 there will be oral interviews and physical examinations held for those who receive the highest marks. These start June 2.

SPRING BIRDS SPRUNG

(The latest game commission release has the following to say about the game birds it has released this spring.)

The Game Commission's spring releases of game birds, with the exception of quail, have been completed. During January 700 wild turkeys, in the ratio of about 1 tom to 3 hens, were liberated in the Southeast and Southcentral Divisions on an experimental basis. During March 1,800 of the birds, 400 toms and 1,400 hens, were stocked in the Northwest, Southwest, Northcentral and Northeast Divisions.

A total of 19,600 mature ringneck pheasants, reared at State Game Farms, have been distributed across the Commonwealth. The sex breakdown was 9,100 males and 10,500 females.

Before the end of April 1,000 bobwhite quail, half males and half females will have been stocked in southcentral Pennsylvania, and another 500 pairs in the southwestern counties.

Mallard ducks being held at the State Wild Waterfowl Farm in Crawford County for egg production are laying, and the first eggs were placed in the incubator April 7. The first lot of purchased ducklings is expected at the Farm about the middle of this month.

A total of 36,260 fifteen-week-old ringneck pheasants, 50-50 cocks and hens, have been contracted for purchase by the Commission during October.

Construction of 50 new brooder houses at the Southwest Game Farm, Armstrong County, is near completion. It is anticipated that 15,000 pheasant chicks will be reared there this spring.

Applications for day-old pheasants have been received and approved for 63,405 chicks for sportsmen's organizations and 166,845 for Farm-Game Project cooperators and farmers with lands open to public hunting -- a total of 230,250. All pheasant chicks available for the 1958 program have already been allocated. Though this total is almost as high as that for 1957 some chick cancellations have been received from Farm-Game cooperators and sportsmen's organizations in southeastern counties, due to the breakdown of pheasant pens by heavy snows late last winter. Anyone interested in the day-old pheasant chick program for 1959 should contact his District Game Protector in time for consideration next year.

JAKE JARR had only done fair on the opening morning of trout season Tuesday. He'd snagged a few small ones by 10 a.m. in the stream below Chapman Dam spillway.

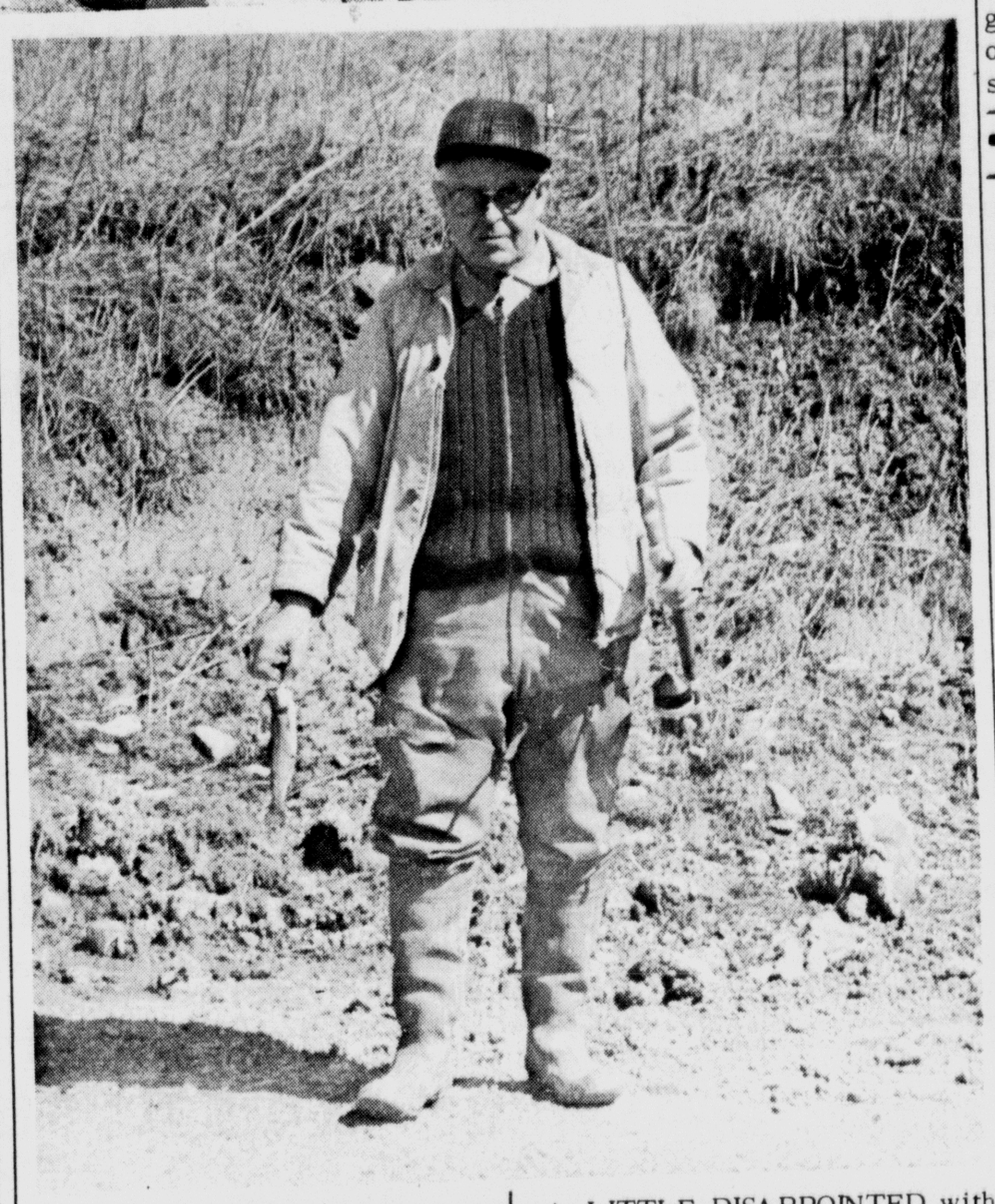

NO LUCK. By 9:30 Tuesday morning Tim Gardner (l.), 13, and brother Larry, 15, said to heck with the trout and headed for home. Maybe we got out too late, but their reports of good catches farther up stream seemed to be false in most cases.

GYM PROGRAM TONIGHT

"Fitness For Youth", a program of tumbling, gymnastics and rhythms, will be presented by students of the Warren High School department of Physical Education at Beaty Gym tonight at 8 p.m.

About 90 physical education students will present a program consisting of modern dancing, square dancing, free exercises, girl's tumbling, boy's tumbling, ladder pyramids, girls' balances, marching and dumbbell and wand drills. Special skills on the spring board, trampoline, flying rings, horizontal bar and parallel bars also will be shown.

Exhibition advisors from the high school faculty are Miss Phyllis Putnam, Miss Dawn Taft, Hall Miller, Joe Massa and Ed McLaughlin.

Musical background will be provided by the A Cappella Choir directed by Carroll Fowler and the high school orchestra under the baton of Harry Summers.

WARREN WINS TRACK MEET

Warren High School captured seven first places against four for Youngsville and two for Northern Area to come out on top of a triangular meet at Beaty Field last Tuesday afternoon. Warren and Northern Area were involved in a four-way tie for first place in the pole vault.

The final score read Warren, 59 1/2; Youngsville, 40; and Northern Area, 24 1/2.

Two Youngsville school records were set during the meet. McMeans ran the mile in 4:42 and Moniak threw the javelin 174 ft. 7 in.

Jack Suppa, Warren, was the only two-time winner in the meet, placing first in the 100 yard dash in 10.6 and, in the 220 yard dash, in 24.3 sec. Other Warren first place winners were Bob Haslet, 440 yard dash, 55.3 sec.; Ron Bowen, discus, 136 ft. 3 in.; Jack Karkosky, broad jump, 19 ft. 1 3/4 in.; the half mile relay team (Aldrich, Terry, Karkosky and Suppa), 1:38.1; and the mile relay team (Haslet, Miller, Johnson and Swanson), 3:44.4.

Taking firsts for Youngsville besides McMeans and Moniak were Brenaman, 180 yard low hurdles, 23.1 sec.; and Belfast, 880 yard dash, 2:12.3.

Northern Area firsts were chalked up by Bud Rowland, shot, 44 ft. 6 in., and Jerry Angove, high jump, 5 ft. 7 1/4 in.

In the pole vault, Jim Tinelli and Clair Trembley, Warren, and Angove and Williams, Northern Area, tied for first place at 9 ft. 3 in.

The Warren trackmen will host Kane on Beaty Field tomorrow afternoon after school and will battle the Kane team Tuesday, April 22, on Beaty Field after school.

WHS GOLFERS START

Golf will make its debut as a Warren High School varsity sport next Thursday, April 24, when a team of high school golfers will travel to Meadville. An eight match schedule has been drawn up for the golfers with home matches carded at Maplehurst.

Warren will participate with Corry, Edinboro and Lawrence Park in the Northwest Pennsylvania Scholastic Golf League.

Golfers teeing off under coach George Frits will be Dan Anthony, Bill Bevevino, Francis Bevevino, Jim Frantz, Gib Hanson, Jake Schulman, Dave Sedwick, John Tickner, Vince Toscano and Bob Yerg.

The golf schedule shows April 24, at Meadville; April 28, at Lawrence Park; May 1, at Edinboro; May 8, at Corry; May 12, Meadville; May 15, Lawrence Park; May 19, Edinboro; and May 29, Corry.

TWO MEETS ADDED

Two additional dual track meets have been added to the Warren High School track schedule published in this column last week. On Tuesday, April 22, the Dragons will oppose Kane on Beaty Field and on Wednesday, May 21, the Blue and White will travel to Olean for a meet.

WHS BASEBALL OPENS

A Warren High School baseball team will take the field for the first time in nine seasons Tuesday afternoon, April 29, when Warren will oppose Olean on Memorial Field. Baseball was last played as a varsity sport at Warren High School in 1949.

About 50 boys are working out under coaches Wally Jewell and Dan Stimmel in preparation for the opener. Home games will be played on Memorial Field.

The Dragon's schedule lists April 29, Olean; May 5, Meadville; May 8, at Jamestown; May 19, at Meadville; May 22, Jamestown; May 26, at Olean; and June 2, at Southwestern.

SOFTBALL LOOP REORGANIZED

The Warren City Softball league, dissolved by league officials last week, was reorganized at a meeting last Monday night. Representatives of five teams attended the reorganizational meeting and they plan to meet again with any other interested persons at the Warren Times-Mirror at 7 p.m. tonight.

Dan Doherty was elected chairman of a board which will operate the loop. The board will be composed of a representative of each team in the circuit.

Teams represented at the meeting were Nino's, Betts, the Warren Merchants, Jones Chevrolet of Sheffield, and a team without a sponsor. A six-team loop could be formed as Youngsville is a probable entry.

The league had been dissolved last Thursday morning by league officers because of lack of interest. The officers felt that in all fairness to the teams that had signed to play in the loop, they could not wait any longer to set up the league schedule.

GAME FIGURES RELEASED

Nearly twice as many antlerless deer were reported killed in Warren County than antlered deer during the 1957 hunting season according to figures released by the Pennsylvania Game Commission. The Game Commission report shows 2861 legal antlerless deer and 1428 legal antlered deer reported killed during the season. In addition, 10 bear were taken in Warren County.

Warren County ranked third in antlerless deer reported killed, following McKean, 3135, and Forest, 3094. Potter County followed closely with 2860.

In buck killed, Warren County ranked ninth. More buck were reported killed in Potter, 2514; Lycoming, 1849; Centre, 1840; McKean, 1749; Elk, 1658; Somerset, 1491; Wayne, 1480; and Huntingdon, 1438.

Warren County tied for eighth with four other counties in the number of bear reported killed. The tabulation shows Lycoming, 34; Clinton, 29; Elk, 21; Pike, 18; Centre, 15; Monroe, 13; and Tioga, 12. Tied with Warren with ten bear kills reported were Forest, Jefferson, Union and Carbon.

* * *

ALL-STATE SELECTIONS

Jack Karkosky, Warren, was placed on the third team and Bud Rowland, Northern Area, was given honorable mention in all-state basketball selections released recently by the Associated Press.

COACHING ADDITIONS

Two additions have been made to the coaching staff of Franklin High School. Carmen Bianco, Erie, a graduate of Edinboro State Teachers College, will assist in football, and G. Robert Irons, Duke Center, an alumnist of Lock Haven State Teachers College will aid in basketball.

James McCullough is head coach and Wayne Eakin, assistant coach of both sports.

Buy or Save?

By Doris Fleeson

WASHINGTON. -- President Eisenhower thinks that Americans will buy their way out of the present recession if industry will only give them some bargains.

The President made this plain at his press conference in unusually crisp and even excited language. His remarks showed plainly that the tax cutters are steadily losing ground at the White House.

It is too much to say that he seemed to be mad at everybody in connection with the economic decline, but he was certainly in a "God helps those who help themselves" frame of mind. Whatever the merits of his economic thinking, he gave his conference a sparkle and ring that are too often lacking.

His party did not get off scot free. Asked if he cared to assess Republican chances in the election this fall in view of the recession, he barked a rare, sharp "No!" When the reporters laughed, he relaxed a trifle but went on to say tersely that Republicans could win if they worked hard and were intelligent about the situation.

In still a third fighting stance he dealt harshly with critics of Pentagon reorganization, leaving no doubt that he thought himself the expert in that field and proposed to prove it.

This was a new look Eisenhower for this sharp and sunny spring weather and it followed the trend in women's fashions in being bobbed, bare and bony.

It has been said of the President that he is a man of vague ideas, firmly held. All his old associates testify that nobody has more trouble making a decision between alternative plans. Apparently he has now made some and has a deeply emotional feeling that they are right. To carry the day, more than words will be required, but the words were there with -- another historic departure -- the subject and predicate in perfect order.

The President two weeks ago also exhorted Americans to buy now. What is new is his frank irritation over industry's failure to lure the plentiful savings of consumers out of their pockets. Such savings are at record highs and, with the consistently steady price level, furnish the paradox of today's decline.

Mr. Eisenhower did not single out the automobile industry by name for his censure, but his visitors have disclosed that he feels Detroit is much to blame for its plight. One visiting fireman has quoted him as saying that American cars are too big and adding that a Texas millionaire friend had turned in his Cadillac for a smaller car.

The President was reminded by a reporter that his Treasury Secretary is asking people to save in a new campaign to increase sales of government bonds. In answer, he retreated from his impulsive "buy anything" demand to an appeal for selective buying.

Politically, a risk attaches to his present technique, not the least of which is the memory of similar exhortations from the last Republican President in the last Depression. It could be that people in an apprehensive mood will not want to be told to spend their savings. What is clear is that the spenders have lost the day for the time being so far as the White House is concerned.

TE LA DI O

LINEUP NOW IS MOVIE

The Lineup, on CBS-TV, has been so popular a series that Columbia Pictures has just released a full length feature with the same title as the television series. The movie, with stars Eli Wallach and Robert Keith, features Warner Anderson in his familiar TV role as Lt. Ben Guthrie of the San Francisco Police Department.

1958 VOICES OF TOMORROW CONTEST OPENS

All non-professional singers, between 18 and 30 years of age and residing in Western New York, Northern Pennsylvania or Ontario, are eligible to enter the 1958 "Voices of Tomorrow" contest. This is the 14th consecutive year the competition has been sponsored by WBEN and WBEN-TV.

Those interested should write or phone WBEN, Buffalo, for a list of required numbers that must be sung by the entrant at auditions. There are four classifications, soprano, alto bass and tenor. Semi-final auditions will be held at the Hotel Statler in Buffalo early in May. The two best singers will compete with regional winners from all over the continent in the finals of the Chicagoland Music Festival on August 23. The national winners will appear on Ed Sullivan's Show and the top prize is an all-expense trip to Chicago for the two best singers, plus $100 bonds and concert appearances. Former winners are not eligible.

DIAL SPINNERS

SHIRLEY TEMPLE'S STORYBOOK tale of "The Land of the Green Ginger" will be seen on NBC-TV stations at 7:30 Friday night. Dragons, genies and a magic carpet are among the delights in this story of the son of Aladdin.

DUPONT SHOW OF THE MONTH presents Victor Herbert's musical hit, "The Red Mill", on CBS-TV channels Saturday night from 7:30 to 9 p. m. Starring are Donald O'Connor, Shirley Jones, Mike Nichols, Elaine May, Elaine Stritch, Harpo Marx and Evelyn "Eloise" Rudy.

HIGH ADVENTURE WITH LOWELL THOMAS in "India" is an hour-long production on CBS-TV at 9:00 Saturday night, immediately following "The Red Mill". Thomas and his TV crew will be seen hunting big game in the northeast corner of India, near Tibet.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S CONCERT by the New York Philharmonic comes directly from Carnegie Hall in New York at 12:00 noon, Saturday, via CBS-TV. Conductor Leonard Bernstein will discuss "What Is Symphonic Music" in this, the fourth and final program of the series.

FRONTIERS OF FAITH at 1:30 Sunday afternoon on WBUF will tell the story of Russell Conwell, founder of Temple University in Philadelphia, in "Acres of Diamonds". Charles Van Doren will narrate.

MEDICINE - TODAY AND TOMORROW is a special half-hour program to be seen at 11:30 a. m. Sunday on WBEN-TV. The Erie County Medical Society is cooperating with Channel 4 in presenting the program in connection with Medical Education Week (April 20-26).

THE GREAT CHALLENGE at 5 p. m. Sunday on CBS-TV features a symposium on human relations in "Individual Relationships in a Mass Society". The six guests are among the most expert and honored individuals in their field.

20TH CENTURY at 6 p. m. Sunday on CBS-TV presents a special hour-long account of man's conquest of space in "Ceiling Unlimited". TV's first complete up-to-the-minute report on space, earth satellites and space travel will feature the designer of the nation's biggest missile to date, the Air Force's 5,000 mile ICBM, "Atlas".

MEET THE PRESS, 6-6:30 p. m. Sunday on NBC-TV, will interview Nelson Rockefeller, chairman of the Rockefeller Brothers Special Studies Project. The first Rockefeller report, dealing with U. S. military strength, recently made national headlines. Nelson Rockefeller has been mentioned as a possible Republican candidate for the New York governorship.

TELEPHONE HOUR at 9 p. m. Monday on NBC Radio will have as guest artist the internationally famous violin virtuoso, Jascha Heifetz, who is interrupting his two-year sabbatical from concert work to make this appearance.

KRAFT TELEVISION THEATRE, 9-10 p. m. Wednesday on NBC-TV, will dramatize "Angry Harvest", a novel written in a Communist jail in Warsaw by Hermann Field and Stanislaw Mierzenski during their four-year imprisonment. The novel was published last month in Poland and the United States.

SPORTS DIAL

BOXING - Heavyweights Alex Miteff, of Argentina, and Willi Besmanoff, of Germany, battle for the second time in a 10-round bout at New Capitol Arena in Washington, D. C., Friday night at 10:00. NBC-TV and Radio cover this Cavalcade of Sports event.

BASEBALL - The Detroit Tigers will be hosts to the Cleveland Indians at Briggs Stadium in NBC-TV's Major League Baseball telecast on Saturday afternoon at 1:30. This is the first regular-season game on the NBC-TV schedule, the two previous Saturdays offering exhibition contests.

"Saturday Game of the Week", on CBS-TV, pits the Milwaukee Braves against the Philadelphia Phillies at 1:55 p. m., April 19.

AROUND THE WORLD

NBC-TV's Major League Baseball telecasts are being seen by U. S. Armed Forces personnel stationed in all parts of the world. The Saturday afternoon games are kinescoped for delayed presentation by 24 television stations at overseas bases. The list includes four in Alaska and the Caribbean area, two in Greenland and Germany, and others in Iceland, Azores, Libya, Arabia, Eritrea, Philippines, Marshall Islands, Okinawa, Korea, Bermuda, Labrador and Newfoundland.

OUR INCOME TAX SIEVE:

Oil Industry's Tax Paradise Helps To Make Millionaires

By Jack Steele

Scripps-Howard Staff Writer

WASHINGTON. -- A Texas oil millionaire raked in a total net income of $14.3 million over a five-year span. Yet he paid income taxes of only $80,000 for the same five years.

His tax rate was only about half of one percent -- compared with the lowest rate of 20 percent set forth in the tax tables for a single man with less than $2,000 a year income.

The Texan was able to avoid most of his taxes by taking advantage of two gimmicks in the tax laws:

1. The percentage depletion allowance for oil and minerals.

2. The special deductions given to oil men for "intangible drilling" and other development costs.

His case was cited by President Truman in 1950 as a "shocking example" of the way percentage depletion permits a few people "to gain enormous wealth without paying their fair share of taxes."

In urging Congress to roll back these allowances, Mr. Truman added: "I know of no loophole in the tax laws so inequitable as the excessive depletion exemptions now enjoyed by oil and mining interests."

But Congress -- as it always has, since percentage depletion was written into the tax laws in 1926 to encourage oil exploration -- refused to close this loophole in 1950. And it greatly widened the loophole in 1954.

Of all the tax-avoidance gimmicks, percentage depletion provides the biggest windfalls. Here's how it works:

The Revenue Code Specifies that certain portions of the gross value of oil and minerals shall be tax-exempt. The percentages range from 27-1/2 for oil and gas to 5 percent for sand and gravel.

Oil and mining companies - and individuals who invest in such ventures - can use these exemptions to free from taxation up to half of their net incomes.

Individuals and corporations now save an estimated $1.5 billion a year in taxes through the percentage depletion gimmick alone.

Such tax savings create a lot of millionaires -- most of them in Texas. They help explain why Fortune magazine recently found that more than a third of the nation's wealthiest individuals had made their fortunes in oil.

And the bulk of the tax benefits from depletion go to big oil and mining companies. They pay on the average, only half as much income taxes as other American corporations.

Why does Congress permit these huge tax windfalls?

Chiefly because it has been persuaded by oil and mining interests of their need for some sort of government subsidy to encourage the discovery and development of these natural resources.

The oil industry maintains, for instance, that depletion allowances produced the flood of oil needed to win World War II. And that, without such tax benefits, gasoline would cost so much most Americans would have to drive small, European-style cars.

Congress has found it more palatable to subsidize the oil and mining industries through tax benefits than by direct government payments. It has steadily increased and expanded depletion allowances until they now cover almost everything that comes out of the ground except water, soil and moss.

Here is the present list:

27-1/2 percent -- oil and gas.

23 percent -- sulphur, uranium and 35 strategic metals and minerals.

15 percent -- other metals, china clay, slate and ornamental stone.

5 percent -- sand and gravel, brick and tile clay, stone, peat and clam and oyster shells.

Last year the House passed a bill to give five percent depletion to another product -- sand dredged from the beds of navigable streams.

Companies which dredge such sand do not own it -- presumably the government does. Nor is this sand depletable, since streams constantly replenish the supply. Yet the House passed the bill on the ground that companies which dredge this sand have to compete with others who get depletion for the sand they dig out of pits.

The Supreme Court punched a much bigger loophole in the tax laws for depletion allowances last fall.

The 27-1/2 percent depletion for oil and gas is based on their value at the well head.

But the Supreme Court ruled that brick, tile and cement companies could base their depletion allowances on the value of their finished products. Tile companies were permitted to add the cost of 13 manufacturing steps to the value of their clay before determining their depletion exemptions.

This decision cost the government $133 million in taxes. And it opened the door for other industries to appeal for similar treatment.

A few weeks ago the Texas Farm Bureau -- in the same spirit -- served notice that it would ask Congress for depletion allowances for water wells used for irrigation.

TAX-EXEMPT GROUPS

Other large tax windfalls go to many thousands of tax-exempt organizations. They include religious and education institutions, foundations, labor unions and pension funds.

In a related category are the partial tax exemptions given to insurance companies, mutual savings banks, building and loan associations and cooperatives.

Such groups have been labeled the "sacred cows" of the tax laws.

Most Americans agree with Congress that the incomes of religious, educational and charitable organizations should be tax-exempt -- in addition to the tax deductions allowed for gifts made to such institutions.

But the tax exemptions such groups receive for their investment and business incomes have been called "a colossus which ultimately will destroy our private enterprise economy".

And some of their abuses of tax exemptions have been branded as "scandalous rackets."

The issues raised by tax-exempt organizations are too complex and controversial to be treated fully in these articles. Here are a few sample problems:

1. A large and fast-growing portion of the nation's assets -- including stocks, bonds and real estate -- are held by these groups. If the present trend continues, in a few years they will hold the bulk of the nation's income-producing assets. And all the income from these assets will escape from income taxes.

Tax-exempt groups own many businesses which compete with taxable enterprises. Obviously this is not fair competition.

Congress in 1950 took away the tax exemption for unrelated businesses owned by educational institutions and foundations. It did so only after flagrant abuses, with colleges owning spaghetti factories and department store buildings.

But religious groups still can and do run tax-exempt businesses and engage in sale-and-lease-back deals set up primarily to avoid taxes.

So do labor unions, which collect tax-free incomes on their pension, welfare and "strike" funds which are invested in real estate or businesses.

2. Thousands of private foundations have been set up in recent years -- as a result of the tax deductions for gifts to these funds. Since most of this money otherwise could have been paid in taxes, all taxpayers as well as the donors contribute to these foundations. Yet the government has little control over the spending of their tax-exempt funds.

A Congressional committee estimated in 1954 that foundations had more than $7.5 billion in assets. Some undoubtedly spend their tax-free money for purposes which do not meet general public approval.

3. Foundations often serve ends which have no relation to the educational or charitable purposes for which they receive tax exemption.

Individuals or families frequently set up foundations primarily to enable them to retain control of big corporations. Gifts of money or stock to the foundations let the owners escape income and estate taxes they could only pay by selling off most of the stock in their company. But by concentrating voting rights in the relatively small amount of stock kept by the owner or family, they hold on to company control.

The Ford family thus kept control of the Ford Motor Co. while giving 90 percent of its stock to the Ford Foundation. Without this tax-avoidance device, most of the Ford Motor Co.'s stock today would be publicly held like that of General Motors.

WILLIAM A. RICHARDS

W. E. LUTZ

William A. Richards, Illustrious Potentate of Zem Zem Temple of Erie, has selected Warren as the site for the organization's summer ceremonial August 2.

Appointed general chairman for the ceremonial was W. E. Lutz, of the Warren County Shrine Club. Working with him will be club officers Wayne G. Painter, A. R. Peterson, Carl Elmquist, J. A. VerMilyea, James A. Blomquist, Henry Ledebur and Robert Jones.

A parade has been planned and will feature a 65-piece band, the renowned Zem Zem Kiltie Band, a Patrol Drill unit, the Legion of Honor, the famous Oriental Band, and the Zem Zem Chanters.

The last ceremonial was held here in 1946.

Coming Attractions . . .

The classic fairy tale "The Little Lame Prince" will be the next production to be filmed for NBC-TV presentation on Shirley Temple's Storybook. Rex Thompson and Lorne Green will star in the telecast tentatively scheduled for Tuesday, July 15.

"Rip Van Winkle" will be presented Thursday, May 8.

*

Two OUTLOOK programs devoted to an examination of Israel's future will be presented by Chet Huntley on NBC-TV May 4 and May 11. Titled "Israel: The Next 10 Years", the programs will be a study of Israel's army and its growing atomic energy industry. Huntley went to Israel with a director and cameraman to get the two-part story.

*

The summer time-spot of the "Steve Allen Show" will be taken over by singers Steve Lawrence and Eydie Gorme, starting Sunday, July 13, with the title to be announced soon. Steve and his family will spend their summer vacation touring Europe.

*

"Blondie", the TV series of the merry but confused domestic adventures of Blondie and Dagwood, returned to NBC-TV's Comedy Time on Wednesday night of this week.

*

"The Member of the Wedding" will be televised on CBS-TV Thursday, June 12, as the final DuPont Show of the Month for this season.

*

Have you noticed that the usual summertime "repeats" have already made their appearance on several television programs?

Refresh With Milk
For Springtime
Energy!

Take a breather! Restore your energy. Have a glass of cold refreshing milk. Isn't it delicious? It's the greatest refresher of all—the lift that lasts. Milk is high in protein—a powerhouse of energy. Recharge—and carry on refreshed, really refreshed, lastingly refreshed.

You never outgrow your need for milk.
Drink 3 glasses every day.

TREAT FOR GARAGE CLEANERS

A man will clean two garages for this snack. Serve him buttery hot biscuits with refreshing cold milk. Gives energy.

YARD RAKER'S DELIGHT

Combine ¾ glass cold milk—¼ glass frozen orange concentrate full strength, thawed, one teaspoon sugar. Serve with cream cheese snacks.

200-HOUR SERVICE BARS were awarded members of the Catholic Daughters of America Study Club last Thursday by the American Cancer Society.

The women have completed over 200 hours of volunteer service for the local society's service program and during this period have made 1,210 disposable pads used by Cancer patients.

Miss Mina Rieder, executive director, presented the bars to (l. to r.) Mrs. Cecilia Moran, Mrs. Nell Randall, Mrs. Frank Peters (back), Mrs. Emil Kopp, Mrs. Agnes Monroe, Mrs. John Mullhaupt, Mrs. Rose Miller, Mrs. Francis Kotmair, Mrs. George Cunningham, Mrs. Willis Cooney. On the right is Mrs. Evelyn Smith, of Harrisburg, a charter member of the group who was visiting here. Another recipient of the award was Mrs. Alice Stakelum.

SUBSCRIBERS TO DIVIDE $26,000 . . . As a result of a favorable decision recently handed down by the Third Circuit Court of Philadelphia that 8% Excise taxes do not apply to TV cable services, the nearly 3,000 subscribers of the local cable will receive Friday checks totaling approximately $26,000.

The legal point reached by the government after several court cases finally states that in earlier legislation governing excise taxation of wire and equipment services, Congress never intended that community television cables be taxed along with telephones, etc.

Bill Loucks, Manager of Warren Television Corporation stated that 8% paid on all monthly service prior to July 1, 1957 would be refunded in addition to the $10 tax paid in by some subscribers on the Capital Contribution Certificate.

Pictured is William J. Loucks, vice president of the local cable, presenting the first check to Merle A. Sly, of 202 E. Fifth ave., one of the first subscribers on Warren TV system.

REHEARSALS for Janus, an adult comedy written by Carolyn Green, are in full swing.

Warren Players will present the production on the Woman's Club stage May 1 and 2 at 8:30 p.m. Mail reservations can now be made by writing to Warren Players, P. O. Box 563, Warren, attention box office chairman.

IF YOU DON'T WANT your car to look like this, then support the Warren high student council car wash these next two Saturdays. Dick Scalise, who is looking over the vehicle, tells us the students will be at the Beaty and high school parking lots with scrub brush and pail from 9 to 6 both dates.

STUDENTS at Warren high school will have front row seats Wednesday morning, April 23, when some of their classmates learn the facts of life-on-the-highways.

The event will be in the nature of a test-demonstration, designed to disprove the old notion that a car can be "stopped on a dime".

Two students, a faculty member and a policeman will take turns at the wheel of a specially equipped car -- and they'll bring it to an emergency stop while traveling at 20, 30, or 40 miles an hour. Other students will check results.

Wednesday's demonstration will be preceded by a student assembly during which students will be briefed on the demonstration and hear an illustrated talk on the importance of driver attitudes.

The assembly will begin at 10 a. m. and the test will follow on Second Ave., just in front of the school.

The performance will be staged in Sheffield the same day at 2 p. m.

The automobile used in the demonstration is supplied by Nationwide Insurance.

AMENDING ORDINANCE NO. 618 ENTITLED "CREATING A PERMANENT STREET IMPROVEMENT FUND".

The Burgess and Town Council of the Borough of Warren hereby enacts and ordains as follows:

SECTION 1. Section 4 of Ordinance No. 618 entitled "Creating a Permanent Street Improvement Fund", adopted February 13, 1956, is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 4. The Borough Council may appropriate monies from the General Fund of the Borough to this Fund. Where Council has appropriated monies from the General Fund to the Permanent Street Improvement Fund, Council may appropriate from the Permanent Street Improvement Fund to the General Fund all or any part of the monies so appropriated from the General Fund to the Permanent Street Improvement Fund. Council shall not, however, appropriate from the Permanent Street Improvement Fund to the General Fund or any other fund of the Borough any monies received by the Permanent Street Improvement Fund from any special tax millage levies for permanent street improvements.

"LEAN LOOK"

"You get more LEAN of the MILK in DAIRY QUEEN—more proteins and more minerals—less fat!"

That's why DAIRY QUEEN fits so well into the modern trend toward leaner foods . . . leaner figures . . . a more active, healthful life.

Fresh milk can be separated into two main parts: one part is butterfat, the other is the non-fat part. Where state laws permit, DAIRY QUEEN is ice milk with more of the non-fat part of the milk—the part containing the proteins, minerals, and most of the vitamins that make milk nature's most nearly perfect food.

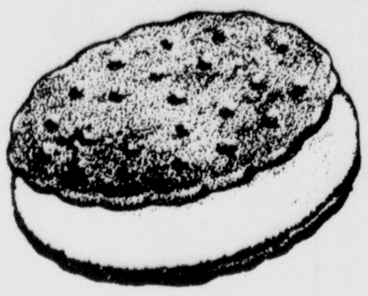

DAIRY QUEEN, unlike many frozen desserts, has less air whipped into it so you get more of the good milk itself. That's why, pint for pint, as DAIRY QUEEN comes from the freezer, it weighs almost half again as much as ordinary ice cream.

Treat your whole family to DAIRY QUEEN! Serve it often! With every ounce you get "more LEAN of the MILK"—the part that gives you relatively more of the body-building proteins, minerals, and vitamins—and less of the fat.

So enjoy DAIRY QUEEN! We take special care to make it fresh, smooth, and delicious.

THE WARREN STATE HOSPITAL Affiliate School of Nursing held its annual Faculty Conference on Thursday, April 10, with seven Directors of Nursing in attendance along with fourteen nurse instructors from nine Pennsylvania schools of nursing. Miss Harriett E. Morgan, the Director of Nursing at Warren State Hospital, extended greetings to the group and presented Miss Margaret Wright, Consultant in Nursing Education from the Department of Welfare in Harrisburg, who was making a week's official visit at the hospital examining the various educational programs.

An estimated 250 student nurses each year receive their required three months' experience in psychiatric nursing which is provided by the Warren State Hospital, one of sixteen such psychiatric programs in the Commonwealth.

In Brief

TRANSFERRED TO HOSPITAL. Norman W. Moon, convicted slayer of Judge Allison D. Wade, was transferred earlier this week from Western Penitentiary in Pittsburgh to Fairview Hospital for the Criminally Insane.

County sheriff L.E. Linder and his deputy, Don Allen, Jr., escorted the 33-year-old former Connellsville man to the institution in Eastern Pennsylvania.

Moon's death sentence was commuted to life imprisonment last Nov. 21 by Gov. Leader, who on the recommendation of the Board of Pardons ordered the transfer to Fairview.

SUICIDE. The body of Mrs. Blanche Lewis, 69, a native of Clarion County who resided recently at 515 Water st., Warren, was pulled from the waters of the Allegheny River by borough police and firemen near the foot of Market st. shortly after 7 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Officials rushed to the location after reports at about 7 a.m. that a body was floating down Conewango Creek. One witness claimed he saw Mrs. Lewis climbing over the rail of the Fifth st., bridge over the Conewango at 6:55 a. m. and two others heard screams from the woman near Third st.

UNOFFICIAL HIGH BID received by the State Department of Forests and Waters for operation of a concession at Chapman Dam State Park was submitted by Joseph S. Montore and Richard L. Bengston, Clarendon, $735 for the season.

* * *

ARRESTED. John A. Radaker, 1-1/2 Cedar st., was arrested at his home by borough police Saturday for leaving the scene of an accident that occurred earlier on Pennsylvania ave.

He had pulled from north curb heading west, went to the opposite side of the road and struck an oncoming vehicle operated by Florence Gohn, 2-35 Pennsylvania ave., E., swerved back across and hit a sign post before continuing on.

Damage to the Gohn car was estimated at $35, but no figure was given for the Radaker auto.

The Warren man pleaded guilty before a justice and is free on $250 cash bail.

* * *

MISJUDGED. A. G. Arnold, 805 Lexington ave., failed to judge properly when he drove his tractor-trailer off Lexington ave. into Parker st. Monday morning and struck two parked cars owned by William Kenselman, 12 Chestnut st., and Kathryn Hibner, 106 Jefferson st. Damage was minor.

* * *

GIVEN SENTENCE. An 18-year-old Bradford man, Regis Royer, was handed his sentence in Warren County Court Friday for attempting to avoid arrest while driving a vehicle.

He was picked up over two weeks ago with two other Bradford men by borough police who had set up a road block on a tip from Union City that a filling station had been burglarized there.

The trio was wanted for a series of break-ins in the Smethport-Bradford area.

Royer was fined $100 (with two years to pay), costs, and given one day in jail.

* * *

ONE-TWO-THREE. Over $500 property damage was caused at 7:55 a. m. Tuesday in the 1300 block of Pennsylvania ave., W., when Clayton N. Hansen, Corydon, failed to stop and piled into the rear of an awaiting vehicle operated by Mabel J. Anderson, 214 E. Fifth ave. Her car in turn was pushed into another car driven by Earl S. Duncan, Jr., 511 Fourth ave.

OFFICERS ELECTED at the April meeting of the Warren-Forest County Bar Association were Sidney W. Blackman, president; James H. Frantz, vice president; David W. Swanson, secretary; Donald S. Mervine, treasurer; and C. Henry Nicholson, director. John Stewart is the retiring president.

In other business the organization announced it will sponsor on May 1 Law Day, an observance designed to acquaint the public with the legal system in the United States.

This year the group has conducted tours through the court house for high school students. A prize will be offered to that student writing the best essay on his impressions of the tour. A county winner will be picked and, in addition to receiving a prize, his essay will be entered in the state contest.

The state winner receives a prize of $250 and a trip to the state bar convention next year.

APPARENT LOW BIDDER for construction work on the slope protection project to safeguard State Highway 337 along the Allegheny River in Pleasant Twp., was Irvine T. Miller & Co. of Burgettstown, Pa. The bid was $132,264.40.

Construction is expected to start in mid-May and the completion date on the contract is September 1.

The project calls for fill and riprap slope protection along the left bank of the Allegheny (opposite the airport) to repair and prevent erosion of the bank along and underneath the highway.

UPSA-DAISY

Up again goes the Blue Cross "21-90" agreements to meet current increased costs of medical care. A 16.4 per cent increase will be effective June 1, 1958. The request was for 21.4 per cent with the suggestion that more would be needed later. They no doubt will be back to the State Insurance Department for another rate adjustment.

NOT HIGH ENOUGH

No announcement has been made concerning the fate of the Warren Apartments, bids for which recently were received by the government. We suspect that no one came very close to the minimum figure of $400,000 which was asked.

MOVING OUT

Activity along the three-lane north of Warren suggests that a major share of the shopping dollar soon will be going that way. Leveling equipment has been moving acres of land on a pair of sites, days, nights, and week ends. Several chain stores are reported to be interested in at least one piece of land and one may have been signed.

NEW EDUCATION BUILDING. At a congregational meeting held Monday, April 14th, the culmination of over three years of planning resulted when a bid for the construction of a new Parish Education building was unanimously accepted. The low bid for the general contract, including all mechanical work, was the Beyer Construction Company in the amount of $180,000.00.

The Church Council was empowered to enter into a contract, and construction of the new building is to begin immediately. It will be located adjacent to the west side of the present church edifice on the site of the former three-story residence which had served the congregation as a Parish House for thirty years, and which has now been razed.

Semi-Gothic in style of architecture, the building was designed by Arthur H. Steinmark, Architect, with offices in the Empire Building Pittsburgh. The new building has been designed as the first unit of a complete future church plant. To be constructed of Indiana limestone, the three-story building will be completely fire proof. It will contain a fellowship hall seating 300 persons, a youth center, church offices, church parlor, and self-containing departmental rooms for the Church School.

The executive and building committee serving from the beginning of the project consists of Sheridan Brown, chairman, Claude King, James Frantz, Albert Ristau, Gilbert Reier, and Everett Siefert.

Pastor F. B. Haer, at last Sunday's services announced that on Sunday, April 20, at the 11:00 Service, Groundbreaking Ceremonies will be conducted on the site of the proposed new building. Representing the Pittsburgh Synod of the United Lutheran Church in America, and participating in the ceremonies, will be the Rev. Howard F. Reisz, Director of Parish Education in the synod. The Committee in charge of arrangements for this special service consists of Mrs. Charles Cable, chairman, Gail Cobb, and James Keller.

Plans For High School Go To State Today

The preliminary plans and specifications for Warren's new high school will be submitted for approval in Harrisburg today as a result of favorable action taken by the joint committee of the Warren Area Joint School Board Monday night.

The plans accepted at that time were similar to those published in this paper recently.

Assistant high school principal Matthew Hosie submitted his resignation to the committee and is preparing to accept the principalship of the junior-senior high school in North East.

Payments of last month's bills were approved in amounts of $72, recreation; $572, special services; $152, substitute teachers employed; $792, janitors' overtime. Orders were approved amounting to $8,662 and cafeteria bills for March totalled $7,196. The finance committee submitted bills in the amount of $16,035.

Kenneth Plimpton was employed as a teacher at Beaty beginning in September.

An attendance report showed 92 per cent for the sixth month and 3,745 pupils enrolled. The figure of percentage was the lowest in 10 years.

THIS IS AN EXCEPTIONAL CHILD

And yet . . . his future — the future of your own son — could be in danger without the proper guidance of parent and teacher working together . . . without every American's insistence on the first-rate education needed to keep our nation strong.

Our future is linked with the quality of our education. To answer this challenge, standards must be re-examined; in most cases, greatly raised.

Start thinking. A point in our history has arrived when we can no longer leave education to "George" or to the experts alone. We all must contribute our thoughts, and our money. Every penny spent on education is for the future of our children . . . and our country.

Kindergarten Registration

Any child five years old now, or becoming five by January 31, 1959, is eligible for kindergarten next September. The school nurses have taken a census during the summer and the school principals have been checking with the help of their older students. If no one has called at your house by Friday, April 18, or you are in doubt about the school nurses stopping in last summer or the summer before, call the nearest elementary school and check.

Registration dates are scheduled for April 21 to May 9. Parents will be notified as to the specific day and time, and all are urged to come to school, bringing with them their child's vaccination and State birth certificate. Registration will be completed at this time and there will be a meeting with the kindergarten teacher to discuss various phases of the kindergarten curriculum.

All children attending kindergarten this year are already registered for first grade in September. Any child six years old now, or becoming six by January 31, 1959, and not in kindergarten, should be registered. This may be done by calling your school principal for an appointment.

Entertainment of next year's kindergarten children will begin the second week in May. This preview into kindergarten life helps make the child's beginning next fall a pleasant one. The different schools will give the parents notice when they are to bring their children.

Kindergarten gives boys and girls the background needed to get off to a fine start in their school life. They learn how to get along together, become interested in reading, and learn the skills needed to start first grade.

THE SACRED COWS

An actor friend of mine, who shall be nameless for his own protection, has been barnstorming the country in a rather esoteric work that has nevertheless drawn large and enthusiastic crowds. Did I say enthusiastic? Well, the people applauded lustily and constantly and in most of the right places.

But this actor, who is a thinking actor, a rare thing, said he thought he detected in the applause a note of apology and of entreaty. "The people in the audience seem to be trying to curry favor with the actors these days," said this actor. "I can see their little anxious faces out there as they're pounding their palms together and they seem to be saying: 'This is the right place, isn't it? Isn't it clever of me to know that that was a good one you just got off? Isn't it clever and astoundingly cultural of me to be here at all, applauding in all the right places?'"

* * *

The actor brooded for a moment and then added: "You know years ago when I started in this business we actors used to try to curry favor with the audience. That used to be the idea of the game. Now, it's getting to be the other way around and I'm not sure it's good for show business."

I'm pretty sure it's downright bad for show business and I think I know why. It's all part of the push toward conformity and it has got a lotworse than simply applauding in the right places. It extends into being seen at the right plays and--here is where it gets really sticky--Thinking the Right Thoughts about them. Not only must you go to "My Fair Lady" but you've got to LIKE "My Fair Lady" on pain of excommunication from the human race or something.

You might well say that that is simply old-fashioned intellectual snobbery which has always been with us. But it seems more deeply seated today to the point where quite sensible people are "applauding in the right places" at the Right Thoughts in the Right Plays--all quite unconscious of how herdlike they have become.

* * *

For instance, there are certain things in our society which it is forbidden to dislike like "My Fair Lady," Helen Hayes, Ethel Barrymore, J. Edgar Hoover, or Marian Anderson. I'm not saying they are not all estimable people; I just think that neither they nor anyone else should be above criticism. It's unhealthy--not for the uncriticized, necessarily--but for the rest of us.

It leads, for instance, to lots of folk showing up at the esoteric bit of theater I mentioned earlier, hating every minute of it and not daring to say so for fear of being labelled intellectual squares. So they suffer in silence but sooner or later there is a revolt and then no power on earth will get them to the theater at all. They don't dare dislike Ibsen but they feel reasonably secure in hating the theater altogether. That's the trouble with intellectual dishonesty. No telling where it ends.

This has not been a good year for comedy or for comedians and I think one reason for this is the sacred cow kind of thinking. There are very few things that it is safe to tell jokes about any more. At least on television, or perhaps anywhere else.

* * *

Mort Sahl, a young man who claims he is not a comedian although he is certainly very funny, has brought into New York an entertainment called a revue (though it's mostly just Mr. Sahl talking) and the very fact that it opened at all is encouraging. Sahl DOES tell jokes about some pretty sacred cows--for instance J. Edgar Hoover's new book ("How to turn your friends into the F.B.I. for fun and profit"), John Foster Dulles ("He flies now--we pay later"), and about a million other things, all presumably dear to the heart of somebody. In fact, he ends the first act by inquiring solicitously: "Are there any groups here I haven't offended?"

And the audience laughed, I thought, hungrily, as if they'd been waiting for something to laugh at for a long, long time, something more substantial than Perry Como's inability to read the cue-cards which has been the big laugh-getter all year. Frankly, I think the turning point has come. I could be over-optimistic but I think non-conformity is coming in, and that blandness is getting too bloody bland for all of us.

PROCLAMATION

The Town Council of the Borough of Warren, Pennsylvania, by Resolution unanimously adopted March 10, 1958, has requested that The Chief Burgess of the Borough of Warren issue a Proclamation declaring Daylight Saving.

I, therefore, request that at two o'clock A. M., Sunday, April 27, 1958, all of the time pieces of the Borough of Warren be set one hour ahead of Eastern Standard Time and be so maintained until two o'clock A. M., Sunday, October 26, 1958, that all business and work in Warren Borough during said period of time be commenced one hour earlier and terminated one hour earlier than customary, and that the Daylight Savings Time be standard time in the Borough of Warren during said period.

War Within War In Washington

By Marquis Childs

WASHINGTON, -- If President Eisenhower really meant what he said at his press conference yesterday about defense reorganization, using greater emphasis than he has applied to almost any other issue in his five years in the White House, then the prospect is for a political battle royal such as this town has not seen in a lon< time.

He holds many strong cards, and his opponents on Capitol Hill have been warned that he is prepared to use them. But these opponents are prepared to fight equally hard, since they believe that this is a critical struggle over Congressional power to control the purse.

Some go even further and see in it a showdown in a historic contest going back to the right of Parliament, following the revolution of Oliver Cromwell's soldiers, to exercise civilian authority over the military. This is a measure of the emotionalism the debate is bound to stir.

The legislation drafted by the Administration to carry out the President's recommendations for a drastic revision of the powers of the Pentagon is still a closely-guarded secret. But key members of Congress have been told of the principal joker in the proposed law.

It does not contain a single syllable giving the Secretary of Defense power over appropriations made to the Defense Department, a power the President had indicated he would seek. But a White House staff working for many months on a reorganization plan has evolved a method whereby Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy will be given this power without changing the law.

The order has gone out, Congressional sources have learned, that the 1960 defense budget is to be so drawn up so that McElroy will, in fact, be able to determine how the $40 billion or more is to be spent between the services. This is to be done by reducing the Army, Navy and Air Force to the status of "projects." The word "project" is the key, since the Secretary currently has authority to shift funds from one project -- the reconstruction of a naval base, for example -- to another project.

This is, in short, a resourceful way of wrapping up the $40 billion defense budget so that, short of tearing it completely apart, the Congressional committees will have to take it on the President's terms. The President is reported to have said that if they do try to tear his next defense budget apart, he will simply refuse to accept Congress' own handiwork and will operate the Defense Department on deficit requests which, in view of national security, the Congress could hardly deny.

A defense budget, as it goes to the Capitol, is as thick as two or three metropolitan phone books. Its very complexity gives the executive branch a considerable power.

The principal changes proposed in the legislation soon to be sent to the Capitol are:

1. Abolition of the planning committees now are responsible to the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the creation of a joint staff responsible to the chairman of the JCS. This has already been done in large part by an executive order issued after the President sent his recommendations to the Capitol. It is here that the opponents see the "Prussian staff system" which they are determined to block.

2. Creation of unified commands, with all operating forces assigned to these commands regardless of uniform. The over-all commander will have complete authority to change any function. Thus, say the admirals, he could assign all the aircraft carriers to the Strategic Air Command.

3. Strikes out the "separately administered" provision which has given comparative autonomy to the Departments of Army, Navy and Air Force. This is the end of the "executive agencies" system which the President said in Reorganization Plan 6, sent to Congress in 1953, would insure "positive civilian control" over the armed services.

As the full significance of the new proposals became evident, top admirals met with Secretary of the Navy Thomas S. Gates Jr. Asked later what the meeting was about, one of them remarked: "Oh, we were just planning to commit hari-kari, falling on our swords in the traditional fashion."

But before any such rash act is contemplated there will be a prolonged engagement, with the White House forces advancing up Capitol Hill against the steady fire of some of the veterans of that scene of frequent battle.

RUSSIAN VICTORY?

We wonder if the success of a young American pianist, Van Cliburn, who last week endwon first place in the International Tchaikovsky competition in Moscow is a triumph for us or for the Russians? The young man amazed the Russians, and their reaction should open at least a few of our eyes.

Despite the fact that the 23-year-old Texan, now transplanted in New York, is a capitalist, he was the only one of the participants who enjoyed a sold-out house every time he appeared in the Tchaikovsky Conservatory. After the first two rounds he was the idol of the enthusiastic crowds which gathered in long queues to obtain tickets.

There are contrasts here that give us pause. Too many of us are inclined to play the Russians down as ignorant peasants and subjugated slaves. Many of us have been convinced that we are superior to these people in cultural, scientific, and industrial lines.

Then came sputnik. We looked at the Russians with new respect and at ourselves analytically. Every bit of us, from our educational methods to our divided defense system, has been scrutinized, analyzed, and, as a result, not quite so idolized.

Now comes Cliburn. Did you ever hear of Cliburn? If he were to appear in the neighborhood theatre would you fight for a seat and ecstatically applaud him for eight solid minutes? We doubt it.

But many of us would pop the door down to hear a Presley and would scream the beams into quivering vibrations if he banged his guitar and shimmied his underwear. Who said something about peasants?

Cliburn's piano playing was so enthusiastically received by the "peasants" that they shouted "bravo" for eight and a half minutes. Even the judges applauded, and permitted a violation of the contest rules by allowing the American boy a second bow.

While we look on in horror as our young audiences go into a frenzy over the sensual gyrations done to the most primitive of jungle beats by Presley and his imitators, one of our most promising young musicians must go all the way to Moscow for a full appreciation of his rendition of Rachmaninoff's Third Piano Concerto in D Minor. For this he received a standing ovation.

Mr. Cliburn was taught only by his mother until he was seventeen. He then entered the Juilliard School of Music. The New York Times says that "it is the fact that he is the product of an American education that has propelled Mr. Cliburn to fame here (Moscow). He has taken Moscow not only by storm but by surprise."

Maybe this makes us even. Sputnik revealed to us Russia's educational advances. Mr. Cliburn has revealed to Russia a suggestion of cultural birth in our nation.

The more you study the many angles to this complexity of events, the more it becomes apparent that much has been said that is unfounded, and great is the need for the people of the world to know each other. All of us have something to give. Simpleness is not confined to peasants, and depth of appreciation for the finer qualities in this life are not the spawn of a production line.
